“ My name is Pamela Fairbanks. I'm 55. I was born in Georgia, but spent most of my life in Virginia, the United States. I have an associate's degree in science, with an emphasis on petroleum technology. I now work in the industrial construction field as an engineering aide or a field engineer. I love what I do; it challenges me every day.

It just so happened that I took a year off last year and was able to do a little soul-searching, a little reading, and I was on Facebook when I came across an advertisement for a book that claimed it would give me the answer to racism; why we are the way we are; why we have racism in the world. And I was interested in knowing that.

I was always curious about war. Rape. Our human struggles. Why we have famine when we have wealthy people. Why are there so many people hungry. Our warped definition of success. Our screwed-up values. Money above men—just a total disregard for human life in general, and it weighed heavy on my heart. Throughout my life I was seeing examples of how cruel we could be to each other, and it weighed heavy on my heart. And Jeremy Griffith, in this advertisement, said he could give me the answers in a free book. I decided to read it. And it took some time. *FREEDOM: The End Of The Human Condition is a pretty big book! So I downloaded it, and sure enough it was free, and I had time on my hands, so I started to read it and investigate the things that he said in the book.

I did some soul-searching and I came to the conclusion that he is spot-on! And so I've decided to open a Center here in the United States because when I was done I wanted to shout to the world what I had learned, and I didn't understand that the World Transformation Movement has people that you can connect with. It took me a few months to realize that there was somebody I could talk to—and there's a whole network of 'someones' actually—and they're very good at being excited with you!

So if you decide that you want answers to all the burning questions, they're there! I said I wouldn't cry...but the relief I felt after understanding what he was explaining is immeasurable. It can't be explained. The immediate forgiveness, and the amount of love you feel is wonderful and you want to share it with the world!

So I invite you to contact me. I'm happy to talk to you about anything pertaining to the book, and the human condition, and I can't wait to hear from you. ”
